Thai-German Trilateral Cooperation

For almost six decades Thailand and Germany had cooperated through bilateral technical cooperation. Graduating from recipient-donor relations, both countries started a new chapter of development cooperation in 2008. A new partnership for regional development with pooled resources from both countries has been established.

- The programme aims to foster development goals in the third partner countries by enhancing the capacity of partner institutions and sharing relevant expertise and technologies from Thailand and Germany as well as utilizing regional wisdom and intellect.
- Together with partner institutions, it implements small-scaled trilateral projects in Cambodia, Lao PDR and Vietnam. The focus areas are education, rural development and health.
- The cooperation is jointly funded by the Thailand International Development Cooperation Agency (TICA), the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development (BMZ).

What is Trilateral Cooperation?

"Trilateral Cooperation" or "Triangular Cooperation" is a partnership in development cooperation between:

- a traditional OECD-DAC donor;
- a provider of South-South Cooperation; and
- a beneficiary country.

All partners make specific and complementary contributions that create measurable value added for the beneficiary country.
