

GIZ, the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit GmbH, is a federal enterprise that supports the German government in achieving its objectives in the field of international cooperation for sustainable development. GIZ has been supporting the Thai Government for more than 60 years. For the project “Market Oriented Smallholder Value Chain (MSVC) in Thailand” we are currently looking for a Rice Value Chain Junior Advisor.

Rice Value Chain Junior Advisor

Market Oriented Smallholder Value Chains (MSVC) project commenced in April 2018 and will run until February 2022 in Indonesia, Thailand and Vietnam and has high potential to extend until August 2022. In Thailand the project is a follow-on measure to the Better Rice Initiative Asia (BRIA) project in the northeast provinces, namely Ubon Ratchathani, and Surin. The project aims at enhancing capacity of farmers and other rice stakeholders in the development of sustainable rice value chains through public-private partnership. The project will be implemented in close collaboration among GIZ, Thai Rice Department of the Ministry of Agriculture and Cooperatives (MoAC) and Olam Thailand. In addition, the project is co-financed by Crop Life International and implementing in Central Plain of Thailand in order to promote Integrated Pest Management (IPM) knowledge to farmers.

The project's core strategy includes i) establishing an outreach model through farmer groups for farmer capacity building and strengthening farmer organizations for easier access to inputs, services and finance; ii) facilitating market links for high quality, sustainable rice standard as precondition for changing production and processing systems to allow segregation of certified rice; iii) reducing transaction costs through more direct sourcing and improved cooperation as the basis for better benefit sharing and improved farmer livelihoods; and iv) promoting IPM knowledge to rice sector in Thailand
